

tion of 69 bottles and 33 bottles of drugs labeled in part, "Santal-Pearls, A Compound made from Finest East India Santal Oil * * * Pfeiffer Chemical Co., [S. Pfeiffer Mfg. Co.], St. Louis, Mo.," remaining in the original unbroken packages at Portland, Oreg., alleging that the article had been shipped on May 3, 1919, by the Pfeiffer Chemical Co. [S. Pfeiffer Mfg. Co.], St. Louis, Mo., and transported from the State of Missouri into the State of Oregon, and charging misbranding in violation of the Food and Drugs Act, as amended.

Analysis of a sample of the article by the Bureau of Chemistry of this department showed that it consisted of gelatin capsules containing essentially a mixture of santal oil and copaiba, flavored with oil of cinnamon.

It was alleged in substance in the libel that the article was misbranded for the reason that certain statements upon the circulars accompanying the article, regarding the curative and therapeutic effects thereof and the ingredients and substances contained therein, falsely and fraudulently represented it to be effective as a treatment, remedy, or cure for gonorrhœa, whereas, in truth and in fact, said drug contained no ingredient or combination of ingredients capable of producing the curative and remedial therapeutic effects claimed therefor upon the labels and in said circulars.

On September 4, 1919, no claimant having appeared for the property, judgments of condemnation and forfeiture were entered, and it was ordered by the court that the product be destroyed by the United States marshal.

On March 29, 1920, the Bennett Day Co., a corporation, New York, N. Y., having stipulated for judgment and agreed as to the facts in the case, judgment of condemnation and forfeiture was entered, and it was ordered by the court that the product be released to said claimant upon payment of the costs of the proceedings and the execution of a bond in the sum of $4,000, in conformity with section 10 of the act, conditioned in part that the claimant should, under the supervision of a representative of this department, make the proper tests in order to determine what portion of the product should be permitted to be transported in interstate commerce and sold.
